Elimination of this contract would deny the NIS support of the old-line Government agency with primary capability and responsibility for trade and finance matters for Free World countries, Cuba and Yugoslavia. Agency staffs such as OER may be unprepared to pick up this burden -- as they have recently reemphasized their own lack of resources to provide continuing detailed coverage of these topics (other than summaries for the General Survey) on even the major Communist countries, except on a very occasional and highly selective basis.

QUALITY:

The content of BIC submissions is technically competent, although the effectiveness of the organization and presentation of material continues highly variable - according to the individual author analyst. OBGI has been trying to emphasize improved pre-submission review, editing, and internal coordination within BIC and these efforts are now beginning to reflect improvements in the persuasiveness and readability of submissions.
